

	Return to Movie Reviews Page
	Title	Year	Rating	Thumbnail Summary and Review
	Dog's Way Home, A	2019		Sentimental fantasy about a dog trying to get back to her human - kind of saccharine but still very entertaining with the addition of beautiful scenery
	Extremely Dangerous	1999		British limited series gets bogged down in too many plot lines and convoluted dealings - would have been a much better look at a man out for revenge after being falsely convicted of murder had it had tighter construction
	Highwaymen, The	2019	*	Based upon fact, the telling of the two former Texas Rangers who were tasked by the governor to track down Bonnie and Clyde - entertaining character study with the addition of great sets and scenery
	Mule, The	2018		Another Clint Eastwood directed and acted gem - based upon a real person, Eastwood plays an old man who has basically deserted his family who becomes a mule for a Mexican cartel after coming upon hard times - super characters, drama, and humor
	On the Basis of Sex	2018	*	Telling of the early career of Ruth Bader Ginsburg - a legal drama but actually more of a love story featuring her husband of many years and her two children - beautifully produced and acted
	Vice	2018		This is a well produced and acted movie but being in the mire of dirty political dealings for over two hours killed my spirit and level of enjoyment
	Welcome to Marwen	2018		Interesting special effects and sets but still a basically silly tale of a man who is seriously injured and creates a doll world after recovery - based upon a real person
	Return to Movie Reviews Page			